Student Highlight - Jacob Bush

As a youngster growing up in Howe, Idaho Jacob learned to listen for God's voice in his decision making. When it became clearly evident that God was leading him to Boise Bible College, Jacob simply said: "All right, God, let's do this." Now in his Sophomore year, Jacob is continuing to step through open doors as God gently molds and matures him into a willing servant leader.

To Jacob building relationships and helping others through discipleship and encouragement is a key part of his personal development. Whether he is mentoring fellow students in the classroom, assisting his professors or serving on the youth ministry team at Ten Mile Christian Church, Jacob is intentionally allowing his love for God and desire to serve Him to shine brightly. He has found that connections with people come easier when he invests in their lives.

Jacob served as an intern in a small church in Pinedale, Wyoming last summer and is looking at further internship opportunities for this coming summer. His preference is to serve in a larger church, but he is keeping the doors open for service in Mexico or Kenya. Either way he is excited to follow God's call.

If he had to choose a favorite class it would have to be "Life of Christ: the Final Week" because "it is thrilling to see what Jesus did in his final moments here on earth." Seeing what Christ focused on in those final days is helping Jacob grow and become the man that God wants him to be.

Acting on Acts

Is the book of Acts a letter written in Paul's legal defense or is it Luke's historical account of the beginnings of the church? Regardless, Terry Stine and Danny Harrod want their students (and the church) to get excited with the book's deep message on missions and how we can maximize our witness for Jesus locally, regionally and globally. We are called by Jesus, in Acts 1:8, to take His gospel message to all people starting with those we know best and those whom we have little contact. We are also called to be ready to go the ends of the earth for those who have not heard that God loves them, wants to spend eternity with them and has a plan to accomplish that.

Nearly every Freshman student takes this class because it is pivotal in understanding the other New Testament books. We all have a great deal to learn from these early Christians and how they lived out their faith in Jesus Christ. The book of Acts is still being written and we want to know what YOU are doing to proclaim the Kingdom of God with boldness and without hindrance. Please contact Terry or Danny for more information on the book of Acts and their availability as a speaker for your congregation or special event.
