BBC invades Richmond!

Seventy-eight Boise Bible College students (nearly half our student body!) attended the 2015 International Conference on Missions in Richmond, VA the last week of October. Their impact was immediately felt as they were asked to participate in the parade of flags ceremony during the opening session.

This was a great opportunity for the students to engage with missionaries from around the world and to pray for discernment in planning their future. They prayed with, and for, the missionaries while exploring career opportunities and seeking God’s direction in their lives. A missionary couple expressed deep and tearful appreciation for our students who visited their booth to pray with them.

One student said, “It’s cool to see how large the body of Christ is, but also how close knit it is.” Another was enthused to see how the church is growing in Iran, North Korea, China, Pakistan, and other areas of persecution. Their eyes were opened to the opportunities for missions inside the borders of our country. They realized the entire world is the mission field and were excited in how God makes us all aware of that.

They learned to decide that nothing is more important than the mission of God.

A big thank you to those who helped our students pay their way to ICOM!

Sam Gill (BBC ‘07) spoke about his work in Pakistan from the main stage at ICOM. He challenged the crowd to be more bold in sharing their faith and used the Christians in Pakistan as an example. In the face of persecution, they proclaim Christ and the church is growing. They even paraded in the streets on Palm Sunday and posted “Merry Christmas” banners around the city. We should be so bold!

Curt Nordhielm (BBC Outreach Coordinator) was the host for the missionary luncheons at the conference. He also serves as the Chairman of the Board for ICOM. Danny Harrod (BBC Professor of Inter-cultural Studies) will serve as Vice-President for ICOM, 2016 in Lexington, KY.

Professor High-fives

This month we feature a story by Professor Jessica Wilson from our Admissions Office blog. These blog posts encourage, inspire, and give insight to everybody.

It’s already well into fall and I’m trying to decide how to celebrate. I grew up in central Illinois where corn mazes, hay bales, fall festivals, pumpkins, and apples compliment the dazzling display of fiery foliage. Mounds of soggy leaves dampened from the cool, crisp weather are gathered along the roadside to be disposed in some way. This is the last hurrah before we swap bonfires for fireplaces, hoodies for winter jackets, and hikes in nature for snuggles on the couch accompanied with a good book and hot apple cider.

Even with the euphony of boisterous celebrations, fall festivals or harvest parties, the season fills me with dread. The recent Indian summer teases me with false hope. Winter is inevitable in this part of the country so unless you live in a tropical area or experience the southern half of the United States, winter is the time where everything luscious …
